PROFILE

I am an resourceful 32 year old philosopher and entrepreneur who is turning himself into a programmer.

I think out of the box and I am continuously chasing new horizons to expand my knowledge and abilities.

Right now I am working as freelance digital agent on different kinds of projects: ranging from audio-tour apps to business development and branding. I have been working on my last startup for almost 5 years. As single founder I have acquired experience in every business field.

I am now focusing myself on learning how to program, because the future will be written in code, and I want to help develop our future!
